AUTHOR'S PREFACE.

The object of this work is to furnish a ready reference to the official incumbency of the principal offices, now or heretofore in existence in the State, accompanied by brief and self-explanatory notes under each divisional head.

No attempt at elaborate biographical or historical sketches is made, the reader being referred for such matter to the various historical works extant.

The author's object has been to make the work perfectly accurate in every detail, but the many thousands of names, and the orthographic variations during the century, render this task a difficult one, if, indeed, not impossible of accomplishment. Orthographic errors in nomenclature would be, indeed, difficult to avoid under any circumstances, but, in view of the condition of some of the public records, the difficulties are immensely heightened.

The accompanying pages, in brief, show:

1. The political progress of the State by comparison of the Ordinance of 1787; the Constitution of 1802, and the Constitution of 1851, upon which our whole political system has been erected.
2. The order of the organization of the Counties.
3. The progress of the State and each County, in detail, in population, by decennial periods, since 1800.
4. The progress of the State in material wealth, and the total amount of taxation for all purposes, annually, from 1803 to 1890, with accompanying notations.
5. Ohio as represented in leading positions in the National administration.

6. The Senators in Congress, in alphabetical order and order of election.
7. The Representatives in Congress, in alphabetical order and order of election.
8. Presidential Electors.
9. Senators and Representatives in the General Assembly, in alphabetical order, with number of terms and General Assemblies in which they served.
10. Senators and Representatives in the order of their election, and organized legislative bodies.
11. Legislators grouped by Counties, showing by whom each County has been represented, in whole or in part, in both houses of the General Assembly.
12. State officers, including the State Judiciary.
13. Boards of Trustees, Directors and Managers of Penal, Benevolent, Reformatory, and Educational Institutions since the date of their creation.
14. Miscellaneous Boards and Commissions.
15. Membership of the different Constitutional Conventions.
16. Membership of the different State Boards of Equalization.
17. Roster of officers and employes, and miscellaneous subjects.
18. Topical notes and comments under divisional heads.

ORDINANCE OF 1787.

[THE CONFEDERATE CONGRESS, JULY 13, 1787.]

An ordinance for the government of the territory of the United States northwest of the river Ohio.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained by the United States in Congress assembled, That the said territory, for the purpose of temporary government, be one district, subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of Congress, make it expedient.

SEC. 2. Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to, and be distributed among their children and the descendants of a deceased child in equal parts, the descendants of a deceased child or grandchild to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; and where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin in equal degree; and among collaterals, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate shall have, in equal parts among them, their deceased parent's share; and there shall, in no case, be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; saving in all cases to the widow of the intestate her third part of the real estate for life, and one-third part of the personal estate; and this law relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the legislature of the district. And until the governor and judges shall adopt laws as hereinafter mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or bequeathed by wills in writing, signed and sealed by him or her in whom the estate may be (being of full age), and attested by three witnesses; and real estates may be conveyed by lease and release, or bargain and sale, signed, sealed, and delivered by the person, being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such wills be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved, and be recorded within one year after proper magistrates, courts, and registers shall be appointed for that purpose; and personal property may be transferred by delivery, saving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskies, Saint Vincents, and the neighboring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property.

SEC. 3. Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be appointed, from time to time, by Congress, a governor, whose commission shall continue in force for the term of three years, unless sooner revoked by Congress; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in one thousand acres of land, while in the exercise of his office.

SEC. 4. There shall be appointed, from time to time, by Congress, a secretary, whose commission shall continue in force for four years, unless sooner revoked; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office. It shall be his duty to keep and preserve the acts and laws passed by the legislature, and the public records of the district, and the proceedings of the governor in his executive department, and transmit authentic copies of such acts and proceedings every six months to the Secretary of Congress. There shall also be appointed a court, to consist of three judges, any two of whom to form a court, who shall have a common-law jurisdiction, and reside in the district, and have each therein a freehold estate, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of their offices; and their commissions shall continue in force during good behavior.

SEC. 5. The governor and judges, or a majority of them, shall adopt and publish in the district such laws of the original States, criminal and civil, as may be necessary, and best suited to the circumstances of the district, and report them to Congress from time to time, which laws shall be in force in the district until the organization of the general assembly therein, unless disapproved of by Congress; but afterwards the legislature shall have authority to alter them as they shall think fit.

SEC. 6. The governor, for the time being, shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, appoint and commission all officers in the same below the rank of general officers; all general officers shall be appointed and commissioned by Congress.

SEC. 7. Previous to the organization of the general assembly, the governor shall appoint such magistrates, and other civil officers, in each county or township, as he shall find necessary for the preservation of the peace and good order in the same. After the general assembly shall be organized, the powers and duties of magistrates and other civil officers shall be regulated and defined by the said assembly; but all magistrates and other civil officers not herein otherwise directed, shall, during the continuance of this temporary government, be appointed by the governor.

SEC. 8. For the prevention of crimes and injuries, the laws to be adopted or made shall have force in all parts of the district, and for the execution of process, criminal and civil, the governor shall make proper divisions thereof; and he shall proceed from time to time, as circumstances may require, to lay out the parts of the district in which the Indian titles shall have been extinguished, into counties and townships, subject, however, to such alterations as may thereafter be made by the legislature.

SEC. 9. So soon as there shall be five thousand free male inhabitants, of full age, in the district, upon giving proof thereof to the governor, they shall receive authority, with time and place, to elect representatives from their counties or townships, to represent them in the general assembly: Provided, That for every five hundred free male inhabitants there shall be one representative, and so on, progressively, with the number of free male inhabitants, shall the right of representation increase, until the number of representatives shall amount to twenty-five; after which the number and proportion of representatives shall be regulated by the legislature: Provided, That no person be eligible or qualified to act as a representative unless he shall have been a citizen of one of the United States three years, and be a resident in the district, or unless he shall have resided in the district three years; and in either case, shall likewise hold in his own right, in fee-simple, two hundred acres of land within the same; Provided, also, That a freehold in fifty acres of land in the district, having been a citizen of one of the States, and being resident in the district, or the like freehold and two years' residence in the district, shall be necessary to qualify a man as an elector of a representative.

SEC. 10. The representatives thus elected shall serve for the term of two years; and in case of the death of a representative, or removal from office, the governor shall issue a writ to the county or township for which he was a member, to elect another in his stead, to serve for the residue of the term.

SEC. 11. The general assembly, or legislature, shall consist of the governor, legislative council, and a house of representatives. The legislative council shall consist of five members, to continue in office five years, unless sooner removed by Congress; any three of whom to be a quorum; and the members of the council shall be nominated and appointed in the following manner, to-wit: As soon as representatives shall be elected, the governor shall appoint a time and place for them to meet together, and when met they shall nominate ten persons, resident in the district, and each possessed of a freehold in five hundred acres of land, and return their names to Congress, five of whom Congress shall appoint and commission to serve as aforesaid; and whenever a vacancy shall happen in the council, by death or removal from office, the house of representatives shall nominate two persons, qualified as aforesaid, for each vacancy, and return their names to Congress, one of whom Congress shall appoint and commission for the residue of the term; and every five years, four months at least before the expiration of the time of service of the members of the council, the said house shall nominate ten persons qualified as aforesaid, and return their names to Congress, five of whom Congress shall appoint and commission to serve as members of the council five years, unless sooner removed. And the governor, legislative council, and house of representatives shall have authority to make laws in all cases for the good government of the district, not repugnant to the principles and articles in this ordinance established and declared. And all bills having passed by a majority in the house, and by a majority in the council, shall be referred to the governor for his assent; but no bill, or legislative act whatever, shall be of any force without his assent. The governor shall have power to convene, prorogue, and dissolve the general assembly when, in his opinion, it shall be expedient.

SEC. 12. The governor, judges, legislative council, secretary, and such other officers as Congress shall appoint in the district, shall take an oath or affirmation of fidelity, and of office; the governor before the President of Congress, and all other officers before the governor. As soon as a legislature shall be formed in the district, the council and house, assembled in one room, shall have authority, by joint ballot, to elect a delegate to Congress, who shall have a seat in Congress, with a right of debating, but not of voting, during this temporary government.

SEC. 13. And for extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, which form the basis whereon these republics, their laws and constitutions are erected; to fix and establish those principles as the basis of all laws, constitutions, and governments, which forever hereafter shall be formed in the said territory; to provide, also, for the establishment of States, and permanent government therein, and for their admission to a share in the Federal councils on an equal footing with the original States, at as early periods as may be consistent with the general interest:

SEC. 14. It is hereby ordained and declared by the authority aforesaid that the following articles shall be considered as articles of compact between the original States and the people and States in the said territory, and forever remain unalterable, unless by common consent, to-wit:

ARTICLE I.

No person, demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner, shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or religious sentiments in the said territory.

ARTICLE II.

The inhabitants of the said territory shall always be entitled to the benefits of the writs of habeas corpus, and of the trial by jury; of a proportionate representation of the people in the legislature, and of judicial proceedings according to the course of the common law. All persons shall be bailable, unless for capital offenses, where the proof shall be evident or the presumption great. All fines shall be moderate; and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted. No man shall be deprived of his liberty or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land, and should the public exigencies make it necessary for the common preservation to take any person's property, or to demand his particular services, full compensation shall be made for the same. And, in the just preservation of rights and property, it is understood and declared that no law ought ever to be made or have force in the said territory that shall, in any manner whatever, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements, bona fide, and without fraud previously formed.

ARTICLE III.

Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged. The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken from them without their consent; and in their property, rights, and liberty they never shall be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity shall, from time to time, be made for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them.

ARTICLE IV.

The said territory, and the States which may be formed therein, shall forever remain a part of this confederacy of the United States of America, subject to the Articles of Confederation, and to such alterations therein as shall be constitutionally made; and to all the acts and ordinances of the United States in Congress assembled conformable thereto. The inhabitants and settlers in the said territory shall be subject to pay a part of the Federal debts, contracted or to be contracted, and a proportional part of the expenses of government to be apportioned on them by Congress, according to the same common rule and measure by which apportionments thereof shall be made on the other States; and the taxes for paying their proportion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the legislatures of the district or districts, or new States, as in the original States, within the time agreed upon by the United States in Congress assembled. The legislature of those districts, or new States, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil by the United States in Congress assembled, nor with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in such soil to the bona fide purchasers. No tax shall be imposed on lands the property of the United States; and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents. The navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and Saint Lawrence, and the carrying places between the same, shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the said territory as to the citizens of the United States, and those of any other States that may be admitted into the confederacy, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor.

ARTICLE V.

There shall be formed in the said territory not less than three nor more than five States; and the boundaries of the States, as soon as Virginia shall alter her act of cession and consent to the same, shall become fixed and established as follows, to-wit: The western State, in the said territory, shall be bounded by the Mississippi, the Ohio, and the Wabash Rivers; a direct line drawn from the Wabash and Post Vincents, due north, to the territorial line between the United States and Canada; and by the said territorial line to the Lake of the Woods and Mississippi. The middle State shall be bounded by the said direct line, the Wabash from Post Vincents to the Ohio, by the Ohio, by a direct line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami to the said territorial line, and by the said territorial line. The eastern State shall be bounded by the last-mentioned direct line, the Ohio, the Pennsylvania, and the said territorial line: Provided, however, And it is further understood and declared, that the boundaries of these three States shall be subject so far to be altered, that, if Congress shall hereafter find it expedient, they shall have authority to form one or two States in that part of the said territory which lies north of an east and west line drawn through the southerly bend or extreme of Lake Michigan. And whenever any of the said States shall have sixty thousand free inhabitants therein, such State shall be admitted, by its delegates, into the Congress of the United States, on an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatever; and shall be at liberty to form a permanent constitution and State government: Provided, The constitution and government so to be formed shall be republican, and in conformity to the principles contained in these articles, and, so far as it can be consistent with the general interest of the confederacy, such admission shall be allowed at an earlier period, and when there may be a less number of free inhabitants in the State than sixty thousand.

ARTICLE VI.

There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted: Provided, always, That any person escaping into the same, from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any one of the original States, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor or service as aforesaid.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid. That the resolutions of the 23d of April, 1784, relative to the subject of this ordinance, be, and the same are hereby repealed, and declared null and void.

Done by the United States, in Congress assembled, the 13th day of July, in the year of our Lord 1787, and of their sovereignty and independence the twelfth.

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO OF 1802.

WE, the people of the eastern division of the territory of the United States northwest of the river Ohio, having the right of admission into the general government as a member of the Union, consistent with the Constitution of the United States, the ordinance of Congress of one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the law of Congress entitled "An act to enable the people of the eastern division of the territory of the United States northwest of the river Ohio to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such State into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes;" in order to establish justice, promote the welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish the following constitution or form of government; and do mutually agree with each other to form ourselves into a free and independent State, by the name of the State of Ohio.

ARTICLE I.

OF THE LEGISLATIVE POWER.

SECTION 1. The legislative authority of this State shall be vested in a GENERAL ASSEMBLY, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives, both to be elected by the people. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 1.)

SEC. 2. Within one year after the first meeting of the General Assembly, and within every subsequent term of four years, an enumeration of all the white male inhabitants above twenty-one years of age shall be made in such manner as shall be directed by law. The number of Representatives shall, at the several periods of making such enumeration, be fixed by the Legislature and apportioned among the several Counties, according to the number of white male inhabitants above twenty-one years of age in each, and shall never be less than twenty-four nor greater than thirty-six until the number of white male inhabitants above twenty-one years of age shall be twenty-two thousand; and after that event, at such ratio that the whole number of Representatives shall never be less than thirty-six nor exceed seventy-two. (See Const. 1851, Art. XI.)

SEC. 3. The Representatives shall be chosen annually, by the citizens of each County, respectively, on the second Tuesday of October. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 2.)

SEC. 4. No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained the age of twenty-five years, and be a citizen of the United States and an inhabitant of this State; shall also have resided within the limits of the County in which he shall be chosen one year next preceding his election, unless he shall have been absent on the public business of the United States, or of this State, and shall have paid a State or County tax. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 3.)

SEC. 5. The Senators shall be chosen biennially, by the qualified voters for Representatives; and on their being convened in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, by lot, from their respective Counties or Districts, as near as can be, into two classes: the seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year, and of the second class at the expiration of the second year, so that one-half thereof, as near as possible, may be annually chosen forever thereafter. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 2.)

SEC. 6. The number of Senators shall, at the several periods of making the enumeration, before mentioned, be fixed by the Legislature, and apportioned among the several Counties or Districts, to be established by law, according to the number of white male inhabitants of the age of twenty-one years in each, and shall never be less than one-third nor more than one-half of the number of Representatives.

SEC. 7. No person shall be a Senator who has not arrived at the age of thirty years, and is a citizen of the United States; shall have resided two years in the County or District immediately preceding the election, unless he shall have been absent on the public business of the United States, or of this State; and shall, moreover, have paid a State or County tax. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 3.)

SEC. 8. The Senate and House of Representatives, when assembled, shall each choose a Speaker and its other officers; be judges of the qualifications and elections of its members, and sit upon its own adjournments; two-thirds of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, §§ 6, 7.)

SEC. 9. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and publish them; the yeas and nays of the members on any question shall, at the desire of any two of them, be entered on the journals. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 9.)

SEC. 10. Any two members of either house shall have liberty to dissent from, and protest against, any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or any individual, and have the reasons of their dissent entered on the journals. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 10.)

SEC. 11. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member, but not a second time for the same cause; and shall have all other powers necessary for a branch of the Legislature of a free and independent State. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 8.)

SEC. 12. When vacancies happen in either house, the Governor, or the person exercising the power of the Governor, shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 11.)

SEC. 13. Senators and Representatives shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of the General Assembly, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 12.)

SEC. 14. Each house may punish, by imprisonment, during their session, any person not a member who shall be guilty of disrespect to the house by any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence; provided such imprisonment shall not, at any one time, exceed twenty-four hours.

SEC. 15. The doors of each house, and of committees of the whole, shall be kept open, except in such cases as, in the opinion of the house, require secrecy. Neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than two days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, §§ 13, 14.)

SEC. 16. Bills may originate in either house, but may be altered, amended, or rejected by the other. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 15.)

SEC. 17. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each house, unless, in case of urgency, three-fourths of the house where such bill is so pending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and every bill having passed both houses, shall be signed by the speakers of their respective houses. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, §§ 16, 17.)

SEC. 18. The style of the laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio." (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 18.)

SEC. 19. The Legislature of this State shall not allow the following officers of government greater annual salaries than as follows, until the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, to-wit: The Governor, not more than one thousand dollars; the Judges of the Supreme Court, not more than one thousand dollars each; the Presidents of the Courts of Common Pleas, not more than eight hundred dollars each; the Secretary of State, not more than five hundred dollars; the Auditor of Public Accounts, not more than seven hundred and fifty dollars; the Treasurer, not more than four hundred and fifty dollars; no member of the Legislature shall receive more than two dollars per day during his attendance on the Legislature, nor more for every twenty-five miles he shall travel in going to, and returning from, the General Assembly.

SEC. 20. No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office under this State which shall have been created or the emoluments of which shall have been increased during such time. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 19.)

SEC. 21. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. (See Const. 1851, Art. II, § 22.)

SEC. 22. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public money shall be attached to, and published with, the laws annually.

SEC. 23. ## ARTICLE VIII.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

That the general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government may be recognized and forever unalterably established, we declare —

SECTION 1. That all men are born equally free and independent, and have certain natural inherent and unalienable rights, amongst which are the enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining happiness and safety; and every free republican government being founded on their sole authority, and organized for the great purpose of protecting their rights and liberties, and securing their independence — to effect these ends, they have at all times a complete power to alter, reform or abolish their government whenever they may deem it necessary. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, §§ 1, 2.)

SEC. 2. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in this State, otherwise than for the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted; nor shall any male person arrived at the age of twenty-one years or female person arrived at the age of eighteen years, be held to serve any person as a servant, under the pretense of indenture or otherwise, unless such person shall enter into such indenture while in a state of perfect freedom, and on condition of a bona fide consideration received, or to be received for their service, except as before excepted. But religion morality, and knowledge being essentially necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of instruction shall forever be encouraged by legislative provision not inconsistent with the rights of conscience. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 7.)

SEC. 4. Private property ought, and shall ever be held inviolate, but always subservient to the public welfare, provided a compensation in money be made to the owner. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 19, and notes.)

SEC. 5. That the people shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and possessions from unwarrantable searches and seizures and that general warrants, whereby an officer may be commanded to search suspected places without probable evidence of the fact committed, or to seize any person or persons not named whose offenses are not particularly described, and without oath or affirmation, are dangerous to liberty, and shall not be granted. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 14.)

SEC. 6. That the printing presses shall be open and free to every citizen who wishes to examine the proceedings of any branch of government, or the conduct of any public officer; and no law shall ever restrain the right thereof. Every citizen has an indisputable right to speak, write or print upon any subject as he thinks proper, being liable for the abuse of that liberty. In prosecutions for any publication respecting the official conduct of men in a public capacity, or where the matter published is proper for public information, the truth thereof may always be given in evidence; and in all indictments for libels the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the facts under the direction of the court, as in other cases. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 11.)

SEC. 14. All penalties shall be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise Legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. When the same undistinguished severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves, and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do the slightest offenses. For the same reasons, a multitude of sanguinary laws are both impolitic and unjust: the true design of all punishments being to reform, not to exterminate, mankind.

SEC. 15. The person of a debtor, where there is not strong presumption of fraud, shall not be continued in prison after delivering up his estate for the benefit of his creditor or creditors, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 15.)

SEC. 19. That the people have a right to assemble together in a peaceable manner to consult for their common good, to instruct their Representatives, and to apply to the Legislature for a redress of grievances. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 3.)

SEC. 20. That the people have a right to bear arms for the defence of themselves and the State; and as standing armies in time of peace are dangerous to liberty, they shall not be kept up; and that the military shall be kept under strict subordination to the civil power. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 4.)

SEC. 24. That no hereditary emoluments, privileges, or honors shall ever be granted or conferred by this State. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 17.)

SEC. 27. That every association of persons, when regularly formed, within this State, and having given themselves a name, may, on application to the Legislature, be entitled to receive letters of incorporation, to enable them to hold estates, real and personal, for the support of their schools, academies, colleges, universities, and for other purposes.

SEC. 28. To guard against the transgression of the high powers which we have delegated, we declare that all powers not hereby delegated remain with the people. (See Const. 1851, Art. I, § 20.)

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF OHIO—1851.

[As amended and in force January 1, 1892.]

---

WE, the people of the State of Ohio, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, to secure its blessings and promote our common welfare, do establish this Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

SECTION 1. All men are, by nature, free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and seeking and obtaining happiness and safety.

SEC. 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal protection and benefit, and they have the right to alter, reform, or abolish the same whenever they may deem it necessary; and no special privileges or immunities shall ever be granted that may not be altered, revoked, or repealed by the General Assembly.

SEC. 3. The people have the right to assemble together, in a peaceable manner, to consult for their common good, to instruct their Representatives, and to petition the General Assembly for the redress of grievances.

SEC. 4. The people have the right to bear arms for their defense and security; but standing armies, in time of peace, are dangerous to liberty, and shall not be kept up; and the military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

SEC. 5. The right of trial by jury shall be inviolate.

SEC. 6. There shall be no slavery in this State; nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime.

SEC. 7. All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience. No person shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship, or maintain any form of worship against his consent; and no preference shall be given, by law, to any religious society; nor shall any interference with the rights of conscience be permitted. No religious test shall be required as a qualification for office, nor shall any person be incompetent to be a witness on account of his religious belief; but nothing herein shall be construed to dispense with oaths and affirmations. Religion, morality, and knowledge, however, being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of public worship, and to encourage schools and the means of instruction.

SEC. 8. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety require it.

SEC. 9. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required; nor excessive fines imposed; nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

SEC. 10. Except in cases of impeachment, and cases arising in the army and navy, or in the militia when in actual service in time of war or public danger, and in cases of petit larceny and other inferior offenses, no person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous, crime, unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury. In any trial, in any court, the party accused shall be allowed to appear and defend in person and with counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him, and to have a copy thereof; to meet the witnesses face to face, and to have compulsory process to procure the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the County or District in which the offense is alleged to have been committed; nor shall any person be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, or be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense.

SEC. 11. Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of the right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech, or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury, and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives, and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted.

SEC. 12. No person shall be transported out of the State for any offense committed within the same; and no conviction shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture of estate.

SEC. 13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor, in time of war, except in the manner prescribed by law.

SEC. 14. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and possessions, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and the person and things to be seized.

SEC. 15. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any civil action, or mesne or final process, unless in cases of fraud.

SEC. 16. All courts shall be open, and every person, for an injury done him in his land, goods, person, or reputation, shall have remedy by due course of law, and justice administered without denial or delay.

SEC. 17. No hereditary emoluments, honors, or privileges, shall ever be granted or conferred by this State.

SEC. 18. No power of suspending laws shall ever be exercised, except by the General Assembly.

SEC. 19. Private property shall ever be held inviolate, but subservient to the public welfare. When taken in time of war, or other public exigency, imperatively requiring its immediate seizure, or for the purpose of making or repairing roads, which shall be open to the public, without charge, a compensation shall be made to the owner, in money, and in all other cases where private property shall be taken for public use, a compensation therefor shall first be made in money, or first secured by a deposit of money, and such compensation shall be assessed by a jury, without deduction for benefits to any property of the owner.

SEC. 20. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others restrained by the people; and all powers not herein delegated remain with the people.

ARTICLE II.

LEGISLATIVE.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of this State shall be vested in a General Assembly, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SEC. 2. Senators and Representatives shall be elected biennially by the electors of the respective Counties or Districts, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; their term of office shall commence on the first day of January next thereafter, and continue two years. [As amended October 13, 1885; 82 v. 446.]

SEC. 3. Senators and Representatives shall have resided in their respective Counties or Districts one year next preceding their election, unless they shall have been absent on the public business of the United States or of this State.

SEC. 4. No person holding office under the authority of the United States, or any lucrative office under the authority of this State, shall be eligible to, or have a seat in, the General Assembly; but this provision shall not extend to township officers, justices of the peace, notaries public, or officers of the militia.

He shall, by virtue of his office, be clerk of all other courts of record held therein; but the General Assembly may provide by law for the election of a Clerk, with a like term of office, for each or any other of the courts of record, and may authorize the Judge of the Probate Court to perform the duties of clerk for his court, under such regulations as may be directed by law. Clerks of Courts shall be removable for such cause and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 17. Judges may be removed from office by concurrent resolution of both houses of the General Assembly, if two-thirds of the members elected to each house concur therein; but no such removal shall be made except upon complaint, the substance of which shall be entered on the journal, nor until the party charged shall have had notice thereof and an opportunity to be heard.

Any vacancy occurring in said commission shall be filled by appointment of the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, if the Senate be in session; and if the Senate be not in session, by the Governor; but in such last case, such appointment shall expire at the end of the next session of the General Assembly. The General Assembly may, on application of the Supreme Court, duly entered on the journal of the court and certified, provide by law, whenever two-thirds of each house shall concur therein, from time to time, for the appointment, in like manner, of a like commission with like powers, jurisdiction, and duties; provided, that the term of any such commission shall not exceed two years, nor shall it be created oftener than once in ten years. The apportionment of this State for members of the General Assembly shall be made every ten years, after the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, in the following manner: The whole population of the State, as ascertained by the federal census, or in such other mode as the General Assembly may direct, shall be divided by the number "one hundred," and the quotient shall be the ratio of representation in the House of Representatives for ten years next succeeding such apportionment.

SEC. 2. Every County having a population equal to one-half of said ratio shall be entitled to one Representative; every County containing said ratio and three-fourths over, shall be entitled to two Representatives; every County containing three times said ratio shall be entitled to three Representatives; and so on, requiring after the first two an entire ratio for each additional Representative.

SEC. 3. When any County shall have a fraction above the ratio so large that being multiplied by five the result will be equal to one or more ratios, additional Representatives shall be apportioned for such ratios among the several sessions of the decennial period in the following manner: If there be only one ratio, a Representative shall be allotted to the fifth session of the decennial period; if there are two ratios, a Representative shall be allotted to the fourth and third sessions, respectively; if three, to the third, second, and first sessions, respectively; if four, to the fourth, third, second, and first sessions, respectively.

SEC. 4. Any County forming with another County or Counties a Representative district during one decennial period, if it have acquired sufficient population at the next decennial period, it shall be entitled to a separate representation, if there shall be left in the district from which it shall have been separated a population sufficient for a Representative; but no such change shall be made except at the regular decennial period for the apportionment of Representatives.

SEC. 5. If, in fixing any subsequent ratio, a County previously entitled to a separate representation shall have less than the number required by the new ratio for a Representative, such County shall be attached to the County adjoining it having the least number of inhabitants, and the representation of the district so formed shall be determined as herein provided.

SEC. 6. The ratio for a Senator shall forever hereafter be ascertained by dividing the whole population of the State by the number thirty-five.

SEC. 7. The State is hereby divided into thirty-three Senatorial Districts, as follows: The County of Hamilton shall constitute the first Senatorial District; the Counties of Butler and Warren, the second; Montgomery and Preble, the third; Clermont and Brown, the fourth; Greene, Clinton, and Fayette, the fifth; Ross and Highland, the sixth; Adams, Pike, Scioto, and Jackson, the seventh; Lawrence, Gallia, Meigs, and Vinton, the eighth; Athens, Hocking, and Fairfield, the ninth; Franklin and Pickaway, the tenth; Clark, Champaign, and Madison, the eleventh; Miami, Darke, and Shelby, the twelfth; Logan, Union, Marion, and Hardin, the thirteenth; Washington and Morgan, the fourteenth; Muskingum and Perry, the fifteenth; Delaware and Licking, the sixteenth; Knox and Morrow, the seventeenth; Coshocton and Tuscarawas, the eighteenth; Guernsey and Monroe, the nineteenth; Belmont and Harrison, the twentieth; Carroll and Stark, the twenty-first; Jefferson and Columbiana, the twenty-second; Trumbull and Mahoning, the twenty-third; Ashtabula, Lake, and Geauga, the twenty-fourth; Cuyahoga, the twenty-fifth; Portage and Summit, the twenty-sixth; Medina and Lorain, the twenty-seventh; Wayne and Holmes, the twenty-eighth; Ashland and Richland, the twenty-ninth; Huron, Erie, Sandusky, and Ottawa, the thirtieth; Seneca, Crawford, and Wyandot, the thirty-first; Mercer, Auglaize, Allen, Van Wert, Paulding, Defiance, and Williams, the thirty-second; and Hancock, Wood, Lucas, Fulton, Henry, and Putnam, the thirty-third. For the decennial period, after the adoption of this Constitution, each of said districts shall be entitled to one Senator, except the first district, which shall be entitled to three Senators.

SEC. 8. The same rule shall be applied in apportioning the fractions of Senatorial Districts and in annexing districts which may hereafter have less than three fourths of a senatorial ratio, as are applied to Representative Districts.

SEC. 9. Any County forming part of a Senatorial District having acquired a population equal to a full senatorial ratio, shall be made a separate Senatorial District at any regular decennial apportionment, if a full senatorial ratio shall be left in the district from which it shall be taken.

SEC. 10. For the first ten years after the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, the apportionment of representatives shall be as provided in the schedule, and no change shall ever be made in the principles of representation as herein established, or in the Senatorial Districts, except as above provided. All territory belonging to a County at the time of any apportionment shall, as to the right of representation and suffrage, remain an integral part thereof during the decennial period.

SEC. 11. The Governor, Auditor, and Secretary of State, or any two of them, shall, at least six months prior to the October election in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and at each decennial period thereafter, ascertain and determine the ratio of representation according to the decennial census, the number of Representatives and Senators each County or district shall be entitled to elect, and for what years, within the next ensuing ten years, and the Governor shall cause the same to be published, in such manner as shall be directed by law.

SEC. 4. The property of corporations now existing or hereafter created, shall forever be subject to taxation, the same as the property of individuals.

SEC. 6. The General Assembly shall provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, by general laws, and restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent the abuse of such power.

NOTES.

There were re-valuations of real property of the State for the years 1826, 1835, 1841, 1847, 1854, 1861, 1871, 1881, and 1891.

Prior to 1826, real estate only was brought upon the duplicate for taxation for State purposes. Funds for County purposes were derived from a poll tax, and a tax upon horses, mules, and cattle, to which was added, by legislative appropriation, a percentage from one-fifth to one-half, varying with the several years, from the taxes levied upon real estate.

GENERAL AND DESCRIPTIVE.

The geographical position of Ohio, with reference to more than half the other States of the Union, makes it the gateway for the domestic land traffic and transportation between the East and North, and West and Northwest and Southwest, while her lake ports, at Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland, and other points along the southern shore of Lake Erie, put her in direct communication with the great water route between all of these sections, except the Southwest, which is supplied by the Ohio River.

The original boundaries of the State were: On the east by the Pennsylvania line; on the south by the Ohio River to the mouth of the Great Miami; on the west by a line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami River; on the north by an east and west line drawn through the southerly extreme of Lake Michigan, running east after intersecting the meridian that makes the western boundary of the State until it intersects Lake Erie, or the territorial line; and thence, with the same, through Lake Erie to the Pennsylvania line.

The eastern, southern, and western boundaries remain unchanged, but the northern boundary was somewhat changed and modified. As finally established by Congress, in 1836, it consists of a direct line, or, in other words, of the arc of a great circle, instead of a parallel of latitude, from the southern extremity of Lake Michigan to the most northerly cape of the Maumee Bay, and thence northeast to the boundary line between the United States and Canada, and along this boundary to its intersection with the boundary of Pennsylvania. This change was provided for in the enabling act of Congress, and also by the State Constitution of 1802; but the moving cause thereto was the dispute that arose prior to, and culminating in, 1835-36, between the State of Ohio and the Territory of Michigan as to jurisdiction along this border.

More technically defined, the territory of the State may be said to lie between  $38^{\circ} 27'$  and  $41^{\circ} 57'$  north latitude, and between  $80^{\circ} 34'$  and  $84^{\circ} 49'$  west longitude. More popularly described, it is bounded on the east by Pennsylvania and West Virginia; on the south by West Virginia and Kentucky, the Ohio separating it from the two latter; on the west by Indiana, and on the north by Michigan and Lake Erie. The longest north and south line that can be drawn through the State is 210 miles, and the longest east and west line 225 miles. The area of the State is 40,760 square miles.

The general surface of the State is an undulating plain. The highest point of elevation—1,540 feet—is one-half mile northeast of Bellefontaine, Logan County, locally known as Hogue's Hill. There are forty-two other elevations, in as many Counties, almost as great. The lowest point is found at the southwestern corner, at the intersection of the Ohio and Great Miami valleys, where the elevation above tide is 440 feet. These extremes of altitude are but 1,100 feet apart, making the range for the State small. The range of elevation over the entire State is proximately 750 feet.

The chief feature of the topography of the State is the main watershed, which extends from its northeastern corner to about the middle of its western boundary. It divides the surface of the State into two unequal slopes, the northern, and much the smallest, sending its waters into Lake Erie and the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while the drainage of the other has its destination in the Gulf of Mexico, via the Ohio and Mississippi. The average height of the watershed is 1,100 feet, but it is cut by three principal gaps, marking the upper waters of the Maumee, Scioto, and Tuscarawas; the former draining the western portion of the northern slope, the second the central, and the last the upper eastern portion of the southern slope.

While the general plan of the State is an undulating plain, the action of the waters, especially on the southern slope, has diversified it with wide and fertile valleys, beautifully modulated hills, and rugged bluffs and highlands, making a most striking ensemble. There are alternations of hills and valleys, glens, champaigns, and wide stretches of prairie. The principal rivers on the southern slope are the Tuscarawas and Muskingum, which, uniting, flow into the Ohio at Marietta; the Hocking, at Hockingport; the Scioto, at Portsmouth; the Little Miami, at the upper boundary of Cincinnati; and the Great Miami, at the corner of Ohio and Indiana. The rivers draining the northern slope are the Maumee, and its numerous tributaries, which falls into Lake Erie, at Toledo; the Portage, at Port Clinton; the Sandusky, at Sandusky; and the Cuyahoga, at Cleveland. All these rivers, especially those on the southern slope, sweep majestically through fertile alluvial valleys, set in picturesque, and often magnificent, scenery, the Muskingum and Hocking being particularly noteworthy in this respect.

The climate of the southern slope, while sometimes subject to sudden and severe changes, is mild and healthful, the mean average temperature being from  $52^{\circ}$  to  $54^{\circ}$ . On the northern slope, the average is  $38^{\circ}$  to  $50^{\circ}$ . The average annual rainfall on the Ohio is forty-four inches; along the lake shore, thirty-two inches. There are from eight to fifteen days difference in the beginning of the spring season between the extreme southern and extreme northern points of the State, as shown by the growth of vernal vegetation and the maturing of the winter wheat crop.

The Ohio is navigable at all seasons, except in severe winter on its upper waters. The Muskingum is navigable as far north as Zanesville. The northern Ohio Canal connects Lake Erie with the Ohio from Cleveland to Portsmouth, with branches down the Muskingum and the Hocking. The Miami and Erie Canal connect the lake and the river from Toledo to Cincinnati. Railways cobweb the entire State, and there is not a town or village of any consequence that is not in direct or immediate connection, by rail, with the rest of the world. In consequence, groups of beautiful suburban towns have been built up around Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, and other cities.

HISTORICAL.

The aboriginal tribes inhabiting the State three centuries ago were: the Eries, who occupied the south shores of Lake Erie; the Delawares, who inhabited the valleys of the Muskingum and its upper tributaries; the Shawnees, in the ~~val-~~ley of the Scioto; and the Ottawas, Miamis, Illinois, and Wyandots (or Hurons), who were spread over the northwestern part of the State and into the valleys of the two Miamis. Other incursive and fragmentary tribes occupied portions of the territory from time to time. In 1650 the Iroquois pushed westward, and, after exterminating the Eries, took possession of their country, to eventually meet a similar fate at the hands of the white man.

Doubtless, the first white man to enter what now comprises the State of Ohio was La Salle, the renowned French explorer. In the spring of 1670, he discovered the Ohio River, and descended it as far as the falls of Louisville, Ky., in a canoe, or primitive craft. A century elapsed before any actual settlements worthy the name were made.

French missions and trading-posts were established along the northern border, and the representatives of France claimed possession of the territory to an extent unknown and unexplored. The cession by the Iroquois to the English of all the lands they had conquered from the other Indian tribes northwest of the Ohio River, precipitated a conflict of title which was only settled by the treaty which put a period to the French and Indian War.

In 1748, the English established a trading-post on the Great Miami River, near the site of the present city of Piqua, in Miami County, which was named Pickawillany. The object was to open up a line of communication between Fort Duquesne, or, perhaps, more properly speaking, between Virginia and Pennsylvania and the remoter West. This post was designed to be one of a series to open up a great trading thoroughfare.

The French, who had undisputed claim to Canada, resented the English assumption of authority, and, early in 1752, in alliance with the Ottawas and Chippewas, made a descent upon the post, captured it, and carried the traders to Canada. This, so far as the records disclose, was the beginning and the end of the first English settlement within the present limits of Ohio. Some years subsequently, all the tribes northwest of the Ohio ceded their land to the English government, and after the War of the Revolution confirmed the cession to the United States. But an almost interminable series of Indian hostilities continued for many years.

Notwithstanding the Indian titles had been extinguished, legislative action by the Congress was necessary to open up the Northwest Territory to settlement, as citizens were prohibited from settling alike on the lands of the Indians and of the United States. The ordinance of 1785 was designed to ascertain and fix the mode of disposing of the lands. Surveys were made and limited sales were effected, in 1787, in New York and Philadelphia, amounting to less than $125,000. No further sales were made, or attempted, in the district, under these surveys, until a land office was opened at Steubenville, July 1, 1801.

On the 27th of October, 1787, Manassah Cutler and Winthrop Sargent, on behalf of their associates of the New England Ohio Company, entered into a contract with the United States Government for the purchase of a tract of land bounded by the Ohio River from the mouth of the Scioto to the intersection of the western boundary of the seventh range of townships, then being surveyed; thence by said boundary to the northern boundary of the tenth township north of the Ohio; thence by a due west line to the Scioto; thence by the Scioto to the beginning. Five years later the bounds of the contract were modified.

The settlement of this purchase began in the spring of 1788, at the mouth of the Muskingum, on the present site of the city of Marietta, and was the first settlement within the limits of Ohio. A year previously, four families from Redstone, Pa., had attempted a settlement at the mouth of the Scioto, but had been prevented from effecting it by the Indians. The Ohio Company's purchase embraced an area of 2,300 square miles, its northern boundary extending north of the center of Hocking County, on an east and west line.

In 1784, the State of Virginia ceded all her wild lands lying between the Ohio and Mississippi, and extending north to the 41st parallel of latitude, to the United States. In 1786, Connecticut ceded to the United States all of her wild lands lying north of the 41st parallel, and between the Mississippi and the State of Pennsylvania, excepting and reserving therefrom a strip extending 120 miles west from the Pennsylvania boundary to the line between Huron and Seneca Counties, which she reserved to her own use until 1800. This was "the Western Reserve of Connecticut," and is popularly spoken of in Ohio as "the Western Reserve." This reservation embraced nearly 6,000 square miles, and was surveyed into townships five miles square. In the western portion of this tract 500,000 acres were set aside and designated "Fire Lands," having been donated by the State of Connecticut to those of her citizens who were sufferers by fire during the Revolutionary War.

The settlement of the Western Reserve did not begin until 1798. A land company was organized in the State of Connecticut which purchased the whole of the Reserve when it was offered for sale by the Connecticut Legislature in 1795, with the exception of the "Fire Lands" and 24,000 acres in the Mahoning Valley, which had been previously surveyed and sold to Gen. S. H. Parsons. At the head of the land company was Oliver Phelps, of Suffield. There were 400 shares of stock, with a par value of $3,000. To Gen. Moses Cleveland was entrusted the work of surveying and settling the country, a task upon which he entered with enthusiasm and alacrity, and successfully accomplished. He surveyed the first plat of the present city of Cleveland in 1796 Its growth, however, was rather slow until within a recent period.

The Ordinance of 1787 constituted the Northwest Territory a civil government with limited powers. Embraced within its boundaries were the present States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Territorial officers were appointed by Congress as follows: Governor, General Arthur St. Clair; Secretary, Winthrop Sargent; Judges, Samuel Holden Parsons, John Armstrong, and James Mitchell Varnum. The Governor and Judges enacted the laws, and afterward enforced them. Magistrates and minor civil officers were appointed by the Governor.

The forty-eight pioneers who made the first settlement in the State, at Marietta, in 1788, were under the charge of Gen. Rufus Putnam, of Revolutionary fame, and landed on the 7th of April of that year, having descended from the Youghiogheny, in Pennsylvania, in a boat, which they christened the "Mayflower." They began their journey from Massachusetts in December, 1787. In July, 1788, the settlement was named Marietta, in honor of Marie Antoinette. Here was established the government of the Northwest Territory, and here the territorial officers maintained their headquarters for some time, but it was never formally recognized as the seat of government.

Other early settlements were made as follows: At Columbia, near the mouth of the Little Miami, late in the year 1788; at Losantiville, opposite the mouth of the Licking River, in 1789. Both these places are now within the corporate limits of the city of Cincinnati. In 1789, Fort Washington, on the present site of Cincinnati, was built and a settlement established. In the same year, Fort Steuben was built on the upper Ohio, and the foundations of the present city of Steubenville were laid. In 1791, a French colony landed a few miles below the mouth of the Great Kanawha, and formed a settlement on the present site of the city of Gallipolis. From this on, settlements were established rapidly over the whole southern slope of the State, especially in the principal valleys.

The third great land purchase in the State was made October 15, 1788, by John Cleves Symmes—for himself and his associates—the purchase embracing all the lands lying between the Little Miami and Great Miami Rivers, and extending north somewhat above the center range of townships in Warren and Butler Counties, containing nearly 400,000 acres. The purchase originally included 1,000,000 acres, but 600,000 acres were not paid for, and reverted to the government.

A strong tide of eastern emigration, and cruel and relentless Indian hostilities, were the characteristics of the first decade of the new territory. In 1791, while endeavoring to check the aggressions of the Indians, General St. Clair was overwhelmingly defeated near the Wabash River, in Mercer County, losing 800 men, and having his army almost literally annihilated. Two years later the field was recovered, the bones of the dead collected and buried, and Fort Recovery established. A flourishing village of the same name now occupies the spot. In 1794, General Wayne broke the Indian power in a great battle at the Rapids of the Maumee River, slaughtering a vast number of warriors. A truce ensued, and in 1795 a treaty of peace was entered into at Greenville, Darke County, between the government and eleven of the most prominent Indian tribes of the Northwest, and the foundations of a permanent peace were laid. But occasional butcheries by small and irresponsible bands of savages continued for many years.

What was known as the Virginia Military Lands covered all the territory lying between the Scioto and Little Miami Rivers, extending north to the center of Hardin County. The United States Military Reservation embraced 4,000 square miles, lying between the Tuscarawas and Muskingum Rivers and the upper course of the Scioto. All the remaining lands, constituting about three-fifths of the entire State, were designated "Congress Lands," and were surveyed into sections one mile square, containing 640 acres, and subdivided into half and quarter sections, and sold to settlers at $1.25 per acre. Each full township contained thirty-six sections, consecutively numbered, and the sixteenth section in each township was set aside for the maintenance of public schools.

Under the provisions of the Ordinance of 1787, whenever the Northwest Territory contained 5,000 free male inhabitants, of full age, it should receive authority to elect a Legislature, which, with the Governor and a Legislative Council of five, chosen by Congress, should constitute the Territorial General Assembly, and enact all laws necessary for the government of the people, not inconsistent with the Ordinance and the Constitution of the United States. The first Territorial Legislature was chosen in 1799, and the second in 1801, each for a term of two years.

The Territory had been divided into nine Counties, Adams, Jefferson, Ross, and Washington, wholly in the State of Ohio; Hamilton, partly in Ohio and partly in Indiana; Wayne, partly in Ohio, partly in Indiana, and partly in Michigan; Knox, Randolph, and St. Clair, embracing all of the remaining territory now included in Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

In further pursuance of the fifth article of the Ordinance of 1787, that designated part of the Territory forming the State of Ohio had the required population of 60,000, in 1802, to call a convention and frame a constitution, preparatory to being admitted as a State into the Union. The convention was held, the constitution framed, after a session of less than one month, and adopted on the 29th of November, and Ohio was admitted as a State into the Union in 1803. The State government, under the Constitution of 1802, did not differ radically from the government as at present constituted. The progress of the State in wealth, population, and importance has been uniform for the past ninety years. At the time of her admission, Ohio ranked as the eighteenth State; but she rapidly passed her competitors, and, in 1840, obtained the third rank, which she maintained until 1890, when Illinois passed her in the race.

The first great public work of the State, the construction of a canal system, was mooted in 1817, and the work began in 1825, under the general direction and supervision of Hon. Alfred Kelly. The work progressed under many difficulties, but was finished within the time specified, and the expenditures were kept within the limits of the original estimates. The total cost fell a little below $16,000,000, and the State has now 788 miles of canals, with feeder reservoirs covering an area of 21,000 acres, or more than fifty square miles—the Mercer County Reservoir, on the line of the Miami & Erie Canal, being the largest artificial body of water in the world.

Railroads speedily followed the canals. The first railroad built and operated west of New York was the Erie &

Kalamazoo, connecting Toledo and Adrian, Michigan, constructed in 1836, and operated by horse power until 1837, when a locomotive was placed on it to supply the motive power. In 1835-1839, the Mad River & Lake Erie was built, to connect Sandusky with Springfield and Dayton. In 1848, the Little Miami, running from Cincinnati to Springfield, was connected with this road, opening the first line across the State. A branch was constructed to Columbus. A part of the lines thus formed is now in the Big Four system, and a part in the Pennsylvania system. Other railway corporations were formed and roads constructed until (1892) there are 106 distinct railway corporations in the State, operated by forty-one companies, with 8,867 miles of main track and 2,211 miles of siding, a grand total of 11,078 miles of track. The total capital stock of the railroads in the State is $543,453,587; funded debt, $419,697,555.

Chillicothe, in Ross County, was the original capital of the State; in 1809 it was removed to Zanesville, Muskingum County; thence back again to Chillicothe in a few years; in 1816 the seat of government was permanently fixed at Columbus, Franklin County, near the geographical center of the State. In 1835, the dispute over the boundary line between Ohio and Michigan culminated in an emuete known as the "Toledo War." Governor Lucas convened the Legislature in extra session, and was authorized to call the militia of the State into action to maintain the claims of Ohio. Fortunately, actual hostilities were averted through the pacific intervention of the General Government. In 1850-1851, a new constitution was formed, which, with subsequent amendments, constitutes the present organic law of the State.

During the various Indian wars and the War of 1812,

Ohio furnished her full quota of effective soldiers, 20,000 men, of all arms and provisions. In the Mexican War of 1846, the State furnished four regiments and a company in excess, 5,536 men in all, and tendered as many more, which the government did not need. In the War of the Rebellion, Ohio furnished 231 regiments of infantry, cavalry, and artillery, twenty-six independent batteries, and five independent companies of cavalry, 340,000 soldiers, of all arms of the service. Of these, 6,536 were killed in battle, 4,674 died of wounds in hospital, and 13,354 died of diseases contracted in the service, the death-rate being eighty-four out of each one thousand enlisted men.

The progress of the State in population is shown by the following figures: 1800, 45,365; 1810, 230,760; 1820, 581,295; 1830, 937,903; 1840, 1,519,467; 1850, 1,980,329; 1860, 2,339,511; 1870, 2,665,260; 1880, 3,198,062; 1890, 3,672,316.

Its progress in wealth, by decennial periods, as shown by the assessed valuation of real, personal, and mixed property, has been: 1800, $2,827,851; 1810, $11,228,536; 1820, $16,648,804; 1830, $64,675,578; 1840, $112,326,156; 1850, $439,876,340; 1860, 888,302,601; 1870, $1,167,731,697; 1880, $1,558,215,965; 1890, $1,778,138,477. The assessed value of property in the State is two-thirds of its actual value; consequently, the total actual value in the ninth decennial period was $2,370,851,303, an increase of a thousand fold in ninety years.

CIVIL DIVISIONS.

The State is divided into eighty-eight counties; the counties are divided into townships, the number depending upon the area of the county, and the townships are subdivided into school and road districts. Municipal corporations are separated from the foregoing civil divisions, with an independent local government, some cities being co-extensive with the township or townships in which they are situate, but no city in the State is co extensive with the limits of the county.

POLITICAL MACHINERY.

The following offices constitute the political machinery for the government of the State and its various subdivisions: State officers elected by the people—Governor, term two years; Lieutenant-Governor, term two years; Secretary of State, term two years; Auditor of State, term four years; Treasurer of State, term two years; Clerk of the Supreme Court, term three years; Commissioner of Common Schools, term three years; Dairy and Food Commissioner, term two years; three members of the Board of Public Works, one chosen each year, term three years; a General Assembly, chosen biennially, and a Judiciary, consisting of six Supreme Judges, one chosen each year, for a term of six years; twenty-four Circuit Judges, term six years, and Common Pleas Judges for the several judicial subdivisions, for a term of five years.

years; State Geologist, no fixed term; Fish and Game Warden, term two years; two Inspectors of Oils, term two years; United States Land Claim Agent, term two years, and Ohio War Claim Agent, no fixed term. In addition, the Governor appoints the managers and trustees of the various penal, reformatory, and benevolent institutions, university trustees, and members of the State boards of health, pharmacy, live stock, and charities, the boards usually numbering five, and, although appointed for a fixed term of five years, are generally changed with a change of Governors. A Supreme Court Reporter and Law Librarian are appointed by the Supreme Court.

Superintendents of county infirmaries and county orphans' homes are appointive officers.

Notaries public in the various counties are appointed and commissioned by the Governor for a term of five years.

Township officers elected by the people — Justice of the Peace, term three years; three trustees, one elected each year, term three years; Clerk, term two years; Constable, term two years; Assessor, term one year. Boards of education, school directors, and road supervisors are elected by smaller subdivisions.

Municipal officers — The number and title of municipal officers are not uniform. All municipalities, however, have a Mayor, Treasurer, and Council, which are elective. A Clerk may be elective or appointive. A Police Judge, when one is chosen, is elective; auditors and comptrollers are usually appointive; marshals of the smaller municipalities are elective. Heads of the police, and police officers, as well as the heads of other departments in the larger ones, are appointive. All of the larger cities have systems of government peculiar to themselves, while modeled on a general plan.

State Executive—The Governors of the State have been: Edward Tiffin, 1803-1807; Thomas Kirker, 1807-1808; Samuel Huntington, 1808-1810; Return Jonathan Meigs, 1810-1814; Othneil Looker, 1814; Thomas Worthington, 1814-1818; Ethan Allen Brown, 1818-1822; Allen Trimble, 1822; Jeremiah Morrow, 1822-1826; Allen Trimble, 1826-30; Duncan McArthur, 1830-32; Robert Lucas, 1832-1836; Joseph Vance, 1836-1838; Wilson Shannon, 1838-1840; Thomas Corwin, 1840-1842; Wilson Shannon, 1842-1844; Thomas W. Chase, 1856-1860; William Dennison, Jr., 1860-1862; David Tod, 1862-1864; John Brough, 1864-1865; Charles Anderson, 1865-1866; Jacob D. Cox, 1866-1868; Rutherford B. Hayes, 1868-1872; Edward F. Noyes, 1872-1874; William Allen, 1874-1876; Rutherford B. Hayes, 1876-1877; Thomas L. Young, 1877-1878; Richard M. Bishop, 1878-1880; Charles Foster, 1880-1884; George Hoadly, 1884-1886; Joseph B. Foraker, 1886-1890; James E. Campbell, 1890-92; William McKinley, Jr., 1892-1894.

The State is represented in Congress by two Senators and twenty-one Representatives. For the purpose of choosing State Senators, the State is divided into thirty-three Senatorial Districts, and the ratio for a Senator is determined by dividing the whole population of the State by thirty five. Each county is entitled to a Representative in the General Assembly, unless its population falls below one-half a ratio, which ratio is determined by dividing the whole population of the State by one hundred. The deficient counties are attached to the county adjoining having the smallest population. If a Senatorial District falls below two-thirds of a ratio, it is attached to the smallest adjoining district. The Governor, Secretary of State, and Auditor of State make the apportionment after each federal census, and determine the number of Senators and Representatives for the districts and counties for the ensuing ten years, taking into account the fractions over full ratios, and apportioning the extra Senators and Representatives to which they may be entitled.

EDUCATIONAL.

Ohio was among the first States to adopt the common-school system, and from the beginning it has proven a marvelous success. There are (1892) 2,185 school districts in the State, with 12,263 subdivisions. There are 12,819 school houses and 19,534 teachers—10,841 gentlemen and 8,693 ladies. The branches taught are inclusive from orthography to trigonometry. The total number of pupils enrolled is 549,269; total annual receipts from all sources, including balances, $15,894,017; total expenditures $11,407,499; balance, $4,486,518; total value of school houses and grounds, $32,631,549.

There are 2,171 high-school districts, with 34,470 pupils enrolled, in which all branches from geometry to political economy are taught German, algebra, and physical geography are taught, both in the lower and the high schools. The colleges in the State number thirty four, with 343 teachers and 4,478 pupils. In the preparatory departments of these colleges are 172 teachers and 3,010 pupils. Of academies and preparatory schools, there are twelve, with forty-eight teachers and 1,154 pupils. Business colleges, six, with twenty one teachers and 1,738 pupils. Normal schools, ten, with 138 teachers and 6,797 pupils. Art schools, nineteen, with 214 teachers and 2,250 pupils. ## MANUFACTURES.

Owing to inadequate legislative provisions, the Commissioner of Labor Statistics has never been able to secure absolutely accurate statistics in regard to the manufacturing industries of the State. He has been able, however, to make a close approximate of the output and value of the vast number of industrial enterprises in the State.

From his latest report the most of the accompanying facts and statistics are drawn:

There are (1891) 12,354 industrial establishments in the State, excluding the smaller shops employing less than five persons. Twenty-one separate industries, and a miscellaneous group, show the following as the capital invested, cost of material, value of product, amount of wages paid, average number of employes, and average daily wages of employes:

Lumber, planing mills, doors, sash, and blinds.—Capital invested, $1,306,400; cost of material, $1,835,437; value of product, $3,183,016; total amount of wages paid, $781,646; average number of employes, 1,085; average wages per day of employes, $2.47.

Electric carbons, gas, coke, and coal.—Capital, $4,667,700; material, $740,072; product, $1,721,800; wages, $402,812; employes, 782; daily wages, $1.65.

GEOLOGY, MINES AND MINING.

The predominant economic geological phenomena are: Coal, iron ore, glass, sandstone, limestone; fire, potter's, pipe, and brick clays; salt, oil, and gas. All of these are widely, and some of them generally, distributed throughout the State.

The coal, iron, fire and potter's clay lie proximate, or not widely dissociated, within the same general field or basin, at varying horizons. One or more, or all of them, are to be found in the following counties, beginning in the northeast: Trumbull, Portage, Mahoning, Stark, Columbiana, Carroll, Tuscarawas, Jefferson, Harrison, Coshocton, Licking, Muskingum, Guernsey, Monroe, Noble, Morgan, Perry, Washington, Athens, Hocking, Vinton, Meigs, Gallia, Lawrence, Jackson, and Scioto. Light deposits are found in other counties. This group of counties skirts the Ohio to the mouth of the Scioto, and runs back into the interior two or three tiers of counties.

The coal field is a prolongation of the great Appalachian field, estimated to contain 60,000 square miles, 10,000 of which are in Ohio. The coal is bituminous, the quality varying according to locality, seam, and horizon, the average throughout being but little below the best bituminous coals of Pennsylvania. It is suited for steam, furnace, and domestic use. Many of the groups are superior gas-coals, and seam number five produces coke very similar in all respects to the Youghiogheny coal. It lies in seven well-defined seams, with six seams not properly defined, and is mined at fourteen horizons, both by shafting and drifting. The workable seams vary from three to six feet, the average being five feet, with an exceptional seam, covering a small district at Straitsville, which has a depth of thirteen feet.

The iron ores are found in the geological series of the lower coal measures, and are classified: Stratified, kidney, block, limestone. The different classes are frequently proximate. The ores are mined at twelve different horizons, and assay from 21 to 40 per cent. of metallic iron. Limited deposits often assay higher than the latter figure. There are deposits of lean ore not taken into account.

The sandstone deposits cover more than one-half of the State, extending from Ashtabula County westward to Erie, and thence to Adams, on the Ohio. The prominent groups are Cuyahoga, Berea grit, Logan, and Waverly. The colors vary from dark brown to red, pink, blue, gray, and white, and the stone is used for all classes of building and masonry, ornamenting, pointing, curbing, flagging, etc.

The limestone deposits are almost as widely distributed, the two frequently overlapping each other. Prominent among the groups are the Point Pleasant, the Cincinnati, and the Lebanon. It is used for building, masonry of various descriptions, lime, fluxing iron ores, and macadamizing the highways.

The clays are utilized for pottery, earthenware, fire-brick; glazed, cherry, pressed, and common building-brick; drain pipes, drain tiles, roofing tiles, terra cotta, and encaustic tiles. At Zanesville is located one of the three encaustic tile manufactories in the United States, with a capacity recently enlarged to the largest in the world, which has revolutionized the price and uses of encaustic tiles in the country within the decade.

The number of tons of coal produced (1890) was 11,788,859, the largest output in the history of the State, valued at $11,453,623. Tons of iron ore produced, 169,088; value, $337,145, the smallest output in ten years. The development of higher grade ores in the South and Northwest has depressed the industry in Ohio and the older iron fields.

The sandstone product had a value of $3,046,656; limestone product, $1,514,934; glass product, $2,946,505; earthenware, fire-brick, fire-clay, pottery, sewer and drain pipe, and tiling, $2,246,606.

The oil and gas fields are of recent development, and have served to create new industries or stimulate old ones. The greatest fields lie in the northwest part of the State, embracing Lucas, Fulton, Henry, Wood, Mercer, Hancock, Seneca, Wyandot, Auglaize, and Allen Counties, in whole or in part. From thence a shallow belt of the deposits apparently extends northeast to Trumbull County, connecting thence with the great Pennsylvania oil and gas fields. From Trumbull County the deposits follow the line of the Ohio as far south as Meigs County, but they are far less important than the northwestern field. At Lancaster, in Fairfield County, immense deposits of gas have been struck, the field extending into Licking County. One-half the State is probably underlaid with gas, but attending circumstances do not justify its exploration and development. The oil product exceeded 15,000,000 barrels.

The production of salt was formerly a prominent industry, but it is now practically at a standstill.

AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES AND TRANSPORTATION.

Both the soil and topography of the State are diversified. The hilly districts in the eastern and southern sections have a light clayey soil, adapted to the culture of the lighter cereals, fruits, and grazing. All the intervening valleys are alluvial and productive. The southern slope, lying west of the hilly district, has a soil composed of sand, clay, loam, and alluvial deposits—often in combination, and again separately placed. The soil of the Maumee Valley is of similar characteristics. Throughout the remainder of the northern slope a clayey soil predominates, frequently mixed with sand.

Almost the entire area of the State is cultivable, there being (1891) but 439,466 acres of waste land out of a total acreage of 20,153,569. Of this, 9,741,467 acres were under cultivation, 6,205,298 in pasture land, and 3,767,338 woodland.

* Agricultural products, in bushels.—Wheat, 31,663,448; rye, 892,256; buckwheat, 122,422; oats, 35,896,089; barley, 35,093; corn, 87,838,192; clover seed, 538,545; timothy seed, 1,094,476; flax seed, 150,127; potatoes, 11,361,606; sweet potatoes, 95,612; apples, 11,431,068; peaches, 735,323; pears, 230,136; cherries, 108,326; plums, 19,274.

In other units of measurement.—Broom corn, 867,090 pounds; hay, 2,009,179 tons; tobacco, 27,082,221 pounds; flax fiber, 6,838,555 pounds; honey, 1,933,628 pounds; grapes, 14,397,329 pounds; wine, 767,073 gallons; wool, 18,287,869 pounds. Besides these, there were many important agricultural products, including small fruits, butter, eggs, cheese, etc. All the enumerated products were a small percentage below the average of the preceding ten years, and a small percentage above the average since 1850, demonstrating that the annual agricultural products of the State are a fixed and stable quantity.

Animals.—Horses, 828,301; cattle, 1,468,806; mules, 23,870; sheep, 3,593,209; hogs, 1,888,175.

The total value of all farm products of all kinds was $198,000,000.

Transportation facilities are ample, and competition gives reasonable rates, both local and through. Lake Erie and the Ohio River furnish water transportation along three sides of the State, connected by the two canal lines north and south. The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio systems have each two lines, running nearly east and west through the State, with lateral and leased lines connecting north and south with the lake and river; the Big Four system divides the State from southwest to northeast, from Cincinnati to Cleveland, with laterals southeast and northwest. The Columbus & Hocking Valley and Toledo & Ohio Central systems divide the State from northwest to southeast, running parallel from Toledo to the Ohio at Gallipolis and Point Pleasant, opposite the mouth of the Great Kanawha. Sixteen roads radiate from Columbus to all points, and the Nickel Plate and Lake Shore & Michigan Southern systems furnish a third great through traffic line to the east and north, and the west, northwest, and southwest. The Baltimore & Ohio, Hocking Valley & Toledo, and Toledo & Ohio Central, with the lines running southeast from Cleveland, connect the entire coal field with lake transportation.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The State House, at Columbus, stands in the center of a square park, containing ten acres, bounded on the north by Broad Street, on the east by Third, on the south by State, and on the west by High. It is a massive structure, built entirely of dressed limestone, quarried from Sullivant's Hill, near the city. It is three stories in height above the basement, with a central dome, and is surrounded on all sides by wide stone terraces, to which access is had on the four fronts by wide flights of stone steps.

In width it is 184 feet, and in length 304 feet. All the fronts are similar, and are ornamented with colonnades of native limestone. In the center of the building is a vast rotunda, flanked by four interior open courts, and lighted by the dome, four wide transepts leading to it from the four entrances, while broad granite stairways lead to the upper stories. The first story is occupied by the offices of the Governor and State officers; the second, by the two chambers of the General Assembly, the Supreme Court, the State Library and Law Library, legislative offices, and committee rooms, while the third is divided into departmental offices.

Its erection began in 1838, and it was not finally completed until 1861, owing to repeated interruptions of work from 1839 to 1848. The actual length of time of its construction was fifteen years. The labor of the penitentiary convicts was utilized, at a nominal cost, in the quarrying of the stone and constructing and finishing the building. Although not wholly completed until 1861, the State House was occupied many years previously by various departments of the State government. The total cost of the structure was $1,644,677.

The first State House was of brick, and was located at the southwest corner of the present grounds. Other brick buildings along High Street furnished accommodations for the State officers and courts. The old building burned completely out, early on Sunday morning, February 1, 1852, evidently the work of an incendiary. It had become an eye-sore, was delaying the completion of the new edifice, and no inquiry was made to fix the identity of the incendiary. The question of greatly enlarging or entirely rebuilding the present State House is mooted.

State institutions at Columbus.—The Columbus Asylum for the Insane lies two miles west of the State House, and is surrounded by three hundred acres of ground. The Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb is at the corner of Town Street and Washington Avenue. The Institution for the Education of the Blind is at the corner of Main Street and Parsons Avenue. The Institution for the Education of Feeble-Minded Youth is located on a large tract of land one mile and a half west of the State House. The Ohio Penitentiary, with a capacity of two thousand or more prisoners, is located in the city, on the east bank of the Scioto. All capital sentences in the State are executed at the penitentiary. The Ohio State University, a distinctively State institution, is located in the northwestern portion of the city, with several hundred acres of farm lands surrounding it. The cost of construction of these buildings is placed at $6,500,000.

Other State institutions.—The Industrial School for Boys is located four miles southwest of Lancaster. The Industrial School for girls is located near Delaware. The Northern Insane Asylum, at Cleveland. The Athens Asylum for the Insane, at Athens. The Ohio University, at Athens. The Dayton Asylum for the Insane, at Dayton. The Toledo Asylum for the Insane, at Toledo. Longview Asylum for the Insane, at Cincinnati. The Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, at Xenia. The Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Sandusky. Working Home for the Blind, at Iberia. The State Reformatory, at Mansfield, and the Asylum for Epileptics, at Gallipolis, are in process of construction. All these buildings are modern, and complete in all their appliances and accessories.

CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati is the metropolis of southwestern Ohio and the lower Ohio valley, and for a long series of years held the envied position of the "Queen City of the West." While her progress in wealth, population, and commercial importance has remained unchecked, her sisters, Chicago and St. Louis, especially the former, have pushed forward with such marvelous rapidity that she now stands third instead of first in the trio.

It is the county seat of Hamilton County, the most populous and wealthy county in the State, and lies on the north bank of the Ohio River, between the Little and Great Miamis, and opposite the mouth of the Licking River, which drains a large section of the State of Kentucky. The climate is mild throughout the year, but subject to sudden, and often extreme, changes during the winter season. The vital statistics show it to be one of the healthiest cities on the continent, barring only epidemics.

The precise date of its original settlement depends on whether the settlement at Columbia, Losantiville, or Ft. Washington is to be considered the original founding of the city. The settlement was made at Columbia in 1788; Ft. Washington was erected in 1789, and Losantiville was settled in 1790. But as they all form integral parts of the city at this time, the earliest date may be properly assigned as the date from which to reckon its anniversary.

The commanding position of Cincinnati, with reference to the commerce of the Ohio Valley, early in the century gave it a prominence which accounts for the solidity of its wealth and the conservatism of its business methods. It was the great western trade center as early as 1825, and its merchant princes proudly named it the "Tyre of the West," as more in keeping with its importance than the "Metropolis of the Miami Country," as Dr. Daniel Drake had named it ten years previously. Later on when the poet Longfellow sang—

"To the Queen of the West,
In her garlands dressed,
On the banks of the beautiful river,"

The "Queen City" was adopted with alacrity. And still later on, when Chicago stepped ahead of her, a philosopher arose, equal to the exigency, and named the city the "Paris of America," in recognition of her high reputation as a pleasure resort, and her exalted appreciation of literature and the polite arts. Once "Porkopolis," and the center of the hog product, she gracefully yielded the palm, in that regard, to Chicago years ago, and turned her capital and enterprise into other channels.

Formerly the business portion of the city lay below Third Street, in the river bottoms, and the residence portion lay on the "bench" above, extending back to the hills, which seemed to stand as an insurmountable barrier to further progress. Now the great bulk of business has gone up-town, and the hills are crowned with beautiful and stately residences, and institutions of art and learning, and pleasure resorts of all kinds. The hills, instead of proving a barrier, were the necessary element to complete the beauty and symmetry of the city, and separate the work-a-day world from the quiet and comfort of the hearthstone and the home.

Cincinnati stands midway between Pittsburg and Cairo, the head-waters and the mouth of the Ohio River. Twenty railroads, either by direct lines or traffic arrangements, converge upon the city, and give it direct communication with all points in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, and, through and beyond these, with all the commercial centers. From Cincinnati to Columbus, the State Capital, it is 120 miles, and to Cleveland, the northern metropolis of the State, 258 miles. The extreme length of the city, along the river front, is between ten and twelve miles, with an average width of three miles.

In preparing the statistics of manufactures, Mr. Sydney D. Maxwell, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, includes Covington and Newport, as well as all the outlying districts of Hamilton County, as properly a part of the city itself. Of manufactures (1890), the following industries take precedence, the annual product of none falling below $5,000,000:

Buggies and carriages, $9,826,540; bookbinding and blank books, $6,142,189; book and newspaper publishing, $6,589,920; candles, soaps, and oils, $10,616,000; clothing and gents' furnishing goods, $21,770,000; furniture, $7,349,000; forged and rolled iron, exclusively for blacksmithing, $5,726,891; distilled liquors, $9,324,761; malt liquors, $9,349,887; rectified spirits, $9,427,480; machinery, $5,941,- 600; provisions, $12,135,145; tobacco and tobacco products, $5,658,710; paper, paper wrappings, paper bags, etc., $5,326,990.

The manufacturing industries include almost the entire line of manufactured wares, embracing hundreds of distinctive branches. There are over 8,000 manufacturing establishments, with an invested capital of $106,599,037, and an annual product valued at $236,162,000. The annual receipts of all kinds and descriptions of commodities were valued at $300,711,893, and the shipments for the same period, including domestic manufactures, $316,419,785.

Receipts of grain, local traffic, 15,925,623 bushels, and shipments 6,895,378. Receipts of grain on through bills of lading, 22,838,243, and shipments 13,807,998; winter packing of pork, 69,313,557 pounds; sales of pig iron, $15,376,500. Total measured tonnage of freight and passenger boats from and to the port of Cincinnati, 23,583; of tow boats, 28,003; total, 51,586. Receipts of tobacco, 75,315 hogsheads and 1,950 cases; offerings, 111,192 hogsheads and 3,360 cases; rejections, 75,303 hogsheads and 2,110 cases. Receipts of whisky, 245,541 barrels; shipments, 486,258. Annual exchanges through the Clearing House, $616,429,650.

The most imposing public buildings in the city are the United States Custom House and Post Office, and the City Hall. The Chamber of Commerce building is likewise an imposing structure. The Music Hall has a seating capacity of ten thousand, and is the especial pride of the city. There are handsome and commodious business blocks on all the business thoroughfares. Churches and school buildings are large, and of tasteful architecture. Private residences on the highlands surrounding the lower portions of the city and in the suburban and residence districts, compare favorably with any modern city. The streets are generally well paved, and the water supply, while good, needs enlargement.

The educational advantages of Cincinnati include the University of Cincinnati; the Cincinnati College; law, medical, and dental colleges; Mechanics' Institution; musical colleges; seventy-five school buildings; thirty school districts; three high schools; one normal school; two deaf-mute schools, and fifty-four private and parochial schools. The enrollment in the public schools is 36,666, and average daily attendance, 28,949.

There are 228 churches in the city, denominationally divided as follows: Baptist, twenty-seven; Congregational, seven; Disciples of Christ, seven; Friends, two; German Evangelical (Protestant) fifteen, (Union) two, (Reformed) two; Hollandische (Reformed), one; Jewish Synagogues, nine; Lutheran, four; Methodist (Episcopal) twenty-four, (German) seven, (Protestant) one, (Colored) five; Church of the New Jerusalem, one; Presbyterian, twenty-five, (Reformed) two, (United) one; Protestant Episcopal, nineteen; Roman Catholic, fifty-five; Seventh-Day Adventists, one; United Brethren in Christ, three; Universalist, one; Unitarian, two; Union Bethel, one; Mission Churches, four.

The Ohio River is spanned by a number of suspension and steel and iron bridges, connecting Cincinnati with Newport and Covington and other Kentucky points, making railway connections with all southern, southeastern, and southwestern points, direct and continuous. The greatest enterprise ever undertaken by the city was the building of the Cincinnati Southern Railway, at a cost of $20,000,000, extending across the States of Kentucky and Tennessee to Chattanooga, giving direct connection by rail with Memphis, New Orleans, Atlanta, Montgomery, Mobile, and the entire Gulf and South Atlantic Coast. The ownership of the road is in the city.

CLEVELAND.

The City of Cleveland, county seat of Cuyahoga, and metropolis of Northern Ohio, is situated in north latitude  $41^{\circ} 38'$ , west longitude  $81^{\circ} 27'$ , on the southeast shore of Lake Erie, distant by rail 182 miles from Buffalo, 676 miles from New York, 357 miles from Chicago, 245 miles from Cincinnati, 173 miles from Detroit, 150 miles from Pittsburgh, and 138 miles from Columbus, the capital of the State. The climate is, for the most part, a salubrious one, and were it not for the fierce gales (to which, however, all the lake region is subject) and the light, sandy soil upon which the city is built, there would be few pleasanter places of residence on the continent.

The average temperature in summer is  $68^{\circ}$ ; in winter,  $20^{\circ}$ ; average maximum,  $92^{\circ}$ ; average minimum,  $5^{\circ}$ ; average mean,  $49^{\circ}$ . There is an excellent water supply, main and service pipes extending to all parts of the city.

The site of the city was originally surveyed by Gen. Moses Cleaveland, in September, 1796, being named after him, the modern orthography, however, dropping the "a" in the first syllable. The growth of the village and city was slow for a long period, but it has now become a great metropolis, with magnificent streets and viaducts, costly and commodious public and private buildings, street railways, electric lights—in short, a great and progressive modern city. In 1850, its population had only reached 17,034. In 1890, it was 261,353.

Its transportation facilities are ample. In addition to the Lake Erie and canal water lines, eight railroads enter the city, while five others have direct running arrangements with it. Cleveland shipyards have turned out more than fifty magnificent steamships and water craft, with an aggregate tonnage of 100,000, and valued at over $8,000,000. More lake tonnage is owned in Cleveland than in any other port. Cleveland is second only to New York in the amount of tonnage inspected. The total tonnage of vessels owned in the district is 305,855 tons.

The manufacturing industries of Cleveland include pretty much every thing that is consumed or enters into commerce. For a decade, industrial enterprises and establishments have multiplied rapidly, until (1890) there are approximately 2,200 manufacturing establishments in the city, with an aggregate capital invested of $32,030,863, an army of 36,249 persons employed, to whom are paid in wages $15,564,096, working up $46,457,286 worth of materials, and turning out a product valued at $83,107,435. Every variety of manufactured product is turned out—air compressors, agricultural implements, boilers, boots and shoes, brooms, bridges, cloaks, corks, chewing-gum, cutlery, egg cases, electrical instruments, iron and steel, linseed oil, nuts, bolts and washers, pumps, safes and locks, stoves, steel screws, ships, printing presses, etc.

In educational and literary institutions, Cleveland maintains a high rank. Public schools of the best character, freely accessible to the humblest and poorest clad in the city, are held in forty-eight school houses, with 598 schoolrooms. These school houses are large, fine, brick structures, well lighted and ventilated, and provided with all modern conveniences and comforts. Six hundred and fifty-three teachers are employed, thirty-five of whom are men and 618 women. Many high-grade private schools and educational institutions are maintained. The Cleveland Public Library and the Case Library rank with the best.

There are some 180 church buildings in the city, distributed as follows: Roman Catholic, twenty-four; Methodist, twenty; Protestant Episcopal, fourteen; Presbyterian, twelve; United Presbyterian, two; Baptist, fifteen; Disciples, four; Congregational, thirteen; Reformed, four; Evangelical Association, nine; Evangelical Lutheran, nine; Evangelical Reformed, seven; Evangelical Independent, one; Evangelical United, eight; Hebrew, nine; Quaker, one; Unitarian, one; United Brethren, two; Swedenborgian, one; Spiritualistic, three; unclassified, eleven. There are also eight Catholic convents, and several new church buildings which are in course of construction. Some of the places of worship enumerated rank with the most imposing examples of ecclesiastical architecture in this country, and all are handsome and attractive.

There are three other cities with a population in excess of 60,000—Columbus, 88,150; Toledo, 81,434; Dayton, 61,220. Five cities have a population in excess of 20,000—Youngstown, 33,220; Springfield, 31,895; Akron, 27,601; Canton, 26,189; Zanesville, 21,009. DECEASED SENATOR.—William A. Trimble died in 1822, while filling the office of United States Senator, from the effects of wounds received at the battle of Ft. Erie, in the War of 1812. Ethan Allen Brown was appointed by the Governor to fill the vacancy caused by his death, and the Legislature subsequently elected him to fill the remainder of the term of six years to which Trimble had been elected.

RESIGNATIONS OF SENATORS.—The following Senators resigned during the terms of their service, and were succeeded by the Senators named:

His resignation prevented an investigation by the United States Senate into the charges. He was succeeded by Return J. Meigs, who, in 1810, resigned to become Governor of Ohio, and was succeeded by Thomas Worthington, who had previously been a Senator.

Edward Tiffin resigned in 1809, having previously resigned the Governorship, in 180 , to assume the Senatorship. He was succeeded by Stanley Griswold, by appointment of the Governor. Alexander Campbell was elected by the Legislature, December 12 1809, for the remainder of the term of Senator Tiffin.

Thomas Worthington resigned in 1814, to accept the office of Governor of Ohio, and was succeeded by Joseph Kerr.

William Henry Harrison resigned in 1828, to accept the office of Minister to Colombia, and was succeeded by Jacob Burnet.

SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES,

Alphabetically grouped, with number of terms and number of General Assemblies following each name. For changes, deaths, resignations, contests, and other incidents, see "Notes and Comments" following the General Assemblies.

Under the Constitution of 1802, one-half the Senators were elected each year, making the Senatorial term two years and the Representative term one year.

Each year is herein treated as a complete term up to 1852, since when, under the present Constitution, the whole membership of the General Assembly has been elected biennially, and all terms expire simultaneously.

GENERAL ASSEMBLIES.

The General Assemblies, as organizations, are given below, preceded by a list of the members of the two Territorial Legislatures which convened during the territorial existence of the State as a part of the Northwestern Territory.

The Senatorial and Representative Districts prior to the Fiftieth General Assembly were subject to frequent and arbitrary change, and the groupings of the Counties, up to the adoption of the present Constitution, are necessarily confusing to those familiar with the present order.

Under the Constitution of 1851, the State was divided into thirty-three Senatorial Districts, each District being entitled to at least one Senator, and to continue so entitled until the population entitled it to additional Senators, or until the population fell below the required number, when it should be attached to the smallest adjoining District, in the manner prescribed in the Constitution, to which reference is made.

Representative Districts constituted entire, but single, Counties, except where the population of a County fell below one-half the ratio, when it was attached to the smallest adjoining County. Consequently, since 1852, all the Senatorial and Representative Districts have been clearly defined.

Under the Constitution of 1802, one-half the Senators were chosen biennially, making the actual Senatorial term two years, and Representatives annually, making the Representative term one year.

Under the Constitution of 1851, the entire membership of the General Assembly is chosen biennially, making the Senatorial and Representative term two years.

The members of the Territorial Legislatures were chosen from the entire Northwestern Territory, consequently but a portion of them came from the limits of Ohio.

The Legislative Council (Senate) and Territorial House of Representatives, constituting the Territorial Legislatures of 1799-1801 and 1801-1803, were as follows, the members of the Council being selected by Congress for the term of five years, and the Representatives being elected by the people for the term of two years:

In the Sixty-third General Assembly, John O'Conner, of Montgomery County, was expelled as being an ex-convict of the Michigan Penitentiary, and was succeeded by James Turner.

EXTRAORDINARY SESSIONS.

The Thirty-fourth General Assembly was called in extraordinary session by Gov. Robert Lucas, June 8, 1835, to take action upon the boundary dispute between the State of Ohio and the Territory of Michigan, which threatened civil war and bloodshed. The Legislature placed the military forces of the State at the disposal of Gov. Lucas, to protect the citizens of the border Counties of Ohio and maintain the rights and claims of the State, and passed an act to prevent the forcible abduction of citizens of Ohio.

The matter was eventually referred to three Commissioners on the part of Ohio, who conferred with the Federal authorities, and the claims of Ohio were sustained, and the boundary lines between the two States were reaffirmed as they now exist. A number of tragedies resulted from the unfortunate jurisdictional dispute, as will be found in detail by reference to Howe's history and other historical works.

The Sixty-ninth General Assembly was called in extraordinary session by Governor Campbell, and assembled on the 14th day of October, 1890, to consider the municipal affairs of the city of Cincinnati, and remained in session ten days, and passed an act reorganizing the government of that city, which was subsequently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

INDUCEMENTS OFFERED VOTERS.

In the Twenty-fourth General Assembly, the seat of Representative James B. Gardiner, of Greene County, was contested on the grounds that he had "published and circulated a certain hand-bill, addressed to the free and independent voters of Greene County," bearing date September 7, 1825, in which, among other things, the said James B. Gardiner did promise to the electors of the County of Greene, that if elected to a seat in the House of Representatives, he would use his best exertions to have "the obnoxious and unconstitutional compensation law repealed" and the wages reduced to two dollars; but that if his exertions should prove unavailing, he would then draw the odd dollar per day from the treasury, and, as soon as he returned home, he would deposit it with the County Commissioners for the use of the people of Greene County.

The Committee on Privileges and Elections, December 10, reported at "this promise did produce an effect upon the electors of Greene County favorable to the election of the said James B. Gardiner," and recommended the adoption of the following resolution, which was adopted by a vote of yeas 44, nays 25, viz.: "Resolved, That James B. Gardiner is not entitled to a seat in the General Assembly of the State of Ohio as a Representative from the County of Greene, and that he is incapable of holding a seat in the House of Representatives for two years;" whereupon the Speaker declared the seat vacant. On December 12, Mr. McCord moved to reconsider the action of the House, so far as it prohibited Gardiner from holding a seat in the Legislature for two years, which was agreed to—yeas 48, nays 18; and the resolution disqualifying the member for two years was indefinitely postponed. On January 2, Mr. Sanderson presented the certificate of election of James B. Gardiner, returned a member from Greene County. Whereupon Mr. Kendall presented a preamble, setting forth that the Constitution declared that "any person who shall, directly or indirectly give, promise, or bestow any reward to be elected, shall thereby be rendered incapable for two years to serve in the office for which he is elected," and that the seat of James B. Gardiner, heretofore returned a member from the County of Greene, was, on the 10th day of December last past, declared by this House to be vacant by reason that said Gardiner, at and previous to the election in October last, had been guilty of a violation of the above provision of the Constitution, and is, therefore, subject to the disability which it declares.

Thereupon a resolution was adopted by 43 yeas to 25 nays, declaring that the said Gardiner was this time incapable to serve as a Representative in the General Assembly.

IMPORTANT LEGISLATIVE COINCIDENCES.

In the Fiftieth General Assembly, the seat of Senator Edwin Corner, of the Fourteenth District, was successfully contested by Cautius C. Covey. The latter was on his way to Columbus on the steamer Buckeye Belle, going up the Muskingum River. When nearly opposite the town of Beverly, the boilers exploded, and Senator Covey, with others, was killed. William Hawkins was elected to succeed him.

During the Sixty-ninth, Senator Andrew J. Robertson, of the Twelfth District, died, and Hugh W. Thompson was elected to succeed him. On the day of his election Mr. Thompson was believed to be dying, and he renounced the office, and James O. Amos, who had formerly served two terms from the Nineteenth District, was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Thompson subsequently recovered.

LONGEVITY IN LEGISLATIVE TERMS.

Among the number of Senators and Representatives who served six or more terms in one House or the other, or six terms in one House, and a varying number of terms in the other prior to the adoption of the present Constitution, were the following, in the order of their number of terms:

Name.	Senate.	House.	Total.

All these gentlemen, with the exception of Peter Hitchcock, served their respective terms prior to the adoption of the present Constitution, when the term was for one year, consequently the terms of their service represent the number of years they were in the Legislature.

Mr. Hitchcock served six of his ten terms under the new Constitution, making his years of service sixteen.

With the adoption of the present Constitution there was a complete revolution, and it is a rare thing to find a legislator coming over from the old regime.

But three men have reached their sixth, seventh, or eighth term since 1852; namely, Dr. James Scott, eight terms in the House; Nelson H. Van Vorhis, six terms in the House, and Aaron R. Van Cleaf, five terms in the Senate and two years in the House.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

AS TO THE SENATE OFFICERS.

Daniel Symms, of Hamilton County, resigned as Speaker of the Senate in February, 1805, and was succeeded by James Pritchard, of Jefferson.

David T. Disney, of Hamilton County, was Speaker pro tem. Peter Hitchcock resigned in March, 1835, and Charles Anthony, of Clark County, was elected his successor. An extra session of this Legislature convened in June, 1835, in which David T. Disney, of Hamilton County, was chosen Speaker.

William Medill, of Fairfield, was the first President of the Senate by virtue of his office as Lieutenant-Governor.

William V. Marquis, of Logan, contested the right of Elbert L. Lampson, of Ashtabula to the office of Lieutenant-Governor and President of the Senate, and was awarded the seat.

John O'Neill, of Muskingum, was elected President pro tem. of the Senate in the Sixty-seventh General Assembly, but subsequently the office was declared vacant, and Silas A. Conrad, of Stark, was elected to the position. The Democratic Senators withdrew from the chamber during the first session of this General Assembly for the purpose of breaking a quorum, which led to declaring, among other things, a vacancy in the office of President pro tem.

PARALLELS.

This action is paralleled by the act of the Whig Senators and Representatives who largely resigned toward the close of the Fortieth General Assembly for the purpose of breaking a quorum, and the withdrawal of the Democratic Senators from the chamber in the Forty-eighth General Assembly to prevent the election of Salmon P. Chase to the United States Senate.

Charles Negley was elected Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate of the Sixty-seventh General Assembly, but the office was declared vacant in consequence of his absence with the withdrawing Senators, and Dayton W. Glenn was elected as his successor.

AS TO THE HOUSE OFFICERS.

James C. Johnson, of Medina County, was the first Speaker under the new Constitution.

James R. Hubbell, of Delaware, Speaker of the House in the Fifty-sixth General Assembly, resigned, and was succeeded by John Johnston, of Summit. In 1869, John F. Follett, of Licking, resigned as Speaker, and was succeeded by French W. Thornhill, of Coshocton.

To BREAK A QUORUM.

The three most notable attempts to break a quorum was the resignation of the Whig Senators and Representatives in 1841-42, the withdrawal of the Democratic Senators in 1848-49 to prevent the election of Salmon P. Chase to the United States Senate, and the withdrawal of all of the Democratic Senators, except Mr. Van Cleaf, in 1886.

The causes leading to this withdrawal were as follows: The Democrats claimed to have elected twenty of the thirty-seven Senators, including the four Senators from the First District, and nineteen Senators constituted a quorum. The Republicans contested the right of the Senators from the First District to their seats, claiming that four Republicans had been elected.

Under the ruling that neither of the four Senators whose seats were being contested should be allowed to vote on the question of seating the others, the Democrats decided to force a compromise by withdrawing and breaking the quorum, thus preventing the Senate from transacting any business. Accordingly, nineteen of them left the chamber and the State, leaving only eighteen Senators.

After several days' waiting, a resolution was suddenly offered and declared carried, seating the four Republican contestants from the First District.

While the Journal of the Senate did not disclose that a quorum had voted, neither did it disclose that less than a quorum had voted, while it did affirmatively declare that the resolution seating the contesting Senators had been adopted.

Upon passing upon the question, the Supreme Court held that the inquiry could not go behind the Journal of the Senate, and its affirmation must be accepted, unless contradicted by the record itself.

VACANCY IN THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORSHIP.

When Lieutenant-Governor Young became Acting Governor, his former office became vacant, and he was succeeded by H. W. Curtis, President pro tem. of the Senate.

LEGISLATORS BY COUNTIES.

With a view of enabling the inquirer to determine who has represented a given County in either branch of the Legislature, they are given herewith under the head of each County they represented, in whole or in part, in either the Senate or House.

During the earlier years of the State's history, many Counties were grouped together for both Senatorial and Representative Districts, and were subject to almost constant change, for which reason the names of legislators will appear as representing a County in which they never resided.

Some will also be found as representing widely separated localities at different periods. This was the result of emigration from one County to another or from one section of the State to another after having served one or more terms.

Where different persons of the same name have been members of either branch of the Legislature at the same time, or at different times, they are designated by the Counties from which they came in the alphabetical grouping of Senators and Representatives.

There has been a marked change since the first one-third of the century in the orthography of the names of individuals, members of the family at present spelling the name differently than their ancestors, as shown by the public records.

Some confusion must necessarily arise from this, but pains have been taken to make the orthography conform, as nearly as possible, to the record, except in some instances.

where the reasons for change and modernization are obvious.

There are instances in which terminal letters so change the name as to indicate two distinct branches or families, and the avoidance of a conflict on this point was impossible without changing the orthography of the official signatures of statesmen who occupied the stage of action three-fourths of a century ago.

But all these apparent conflicts will readily reconcile themselves to the intelligent reader. There are more than five thousand separate individuals recorded in each of the three legislative lists herein, and of these several hundred, coming on the stage at different periods, had their own peculiar ideas of orthography.

Under the Constitution of 1852, the Senatorial Districts were fixed permanently, and each County was given separate representation in the House, unless its population fell below one-half a ratio, when it was attached to the smallest County adjoining.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

ACTING GOVERNORS.

The following persons filled the office of Governor as acting Governors, for the reasons assigned:

Thomas Kirker, in March, 1807, upon the resignation of Governor Tiffin to become United States Senator, by virtue of his office of Speaker of the Senate. He continued to fill the office until the election of Governor Huntington, Return Jonathan Meigs in the meantime having been elected, but declared ineligible.

Othneil Looker, in March, 1814, in place of Governor Meigs, who resigned to become Postmaster-General, by virtue of his office of Speaker of the Senate.

Allen Trimble, in January, 1822, in place of Governor Brown, who resigned to become United States Senator, by virtue of his office of Speaker of the Senate.

Thomas W. Bartley, in April, 1844, in place of Governor Shannon, who resigned to become Minister to Mexico, by virtue of his office of Speaker of the Senate.

William Medill, in July, 1853, in place of Reuben Wood, who resigned to become Consul at Valparaiso, Chili, by virtue of his office of Lieutenant-Governor.

Charles Anderson, in August, 1865, in place of Governor Brough, who died in office August 29, 1865, by virtue of his office of Lieutenant-Governor.

Thomas L. Young, in March, 1877, in place of Governor Hayes, who resigned to become President of the United States, by virtue of his office of Lieutenant-Governor.

DIED IN OFFICE.

Governor John Brough. August 29, 1865.

DEFERRED ELECTION RETURNS.

The returns of the election for Governor in 1848 were delayed in their determination by the joint convention of the two Houses, and the result was not finally declared until January 19, 1849, and the inauguration of Governor Ford did not take place until Monday, January 22, 1849.

DECLARED INELIGIBLE.

Return Jonathan Meigs was elected Governor on the second Tuesday of October, 1807, over Nathaniel Massie, who contested the election of Meigs on the ground "that he had not been a resident of this State for four years next preceding the election, as required by the Constitution," and the General Assembly, in joint convention, decided that he was not eligible. The office was not given to Massie, nor does it appear from the records that he claimed it, but Thomas Kirker, acting Governor, continued to discharge the duties of the office until December 12, 1808, when Samuel Huntington was inaugurated, he having been elected on the second Tuesday of October in that year.

FATHER SUCCEEDS SON.

In 1845, Mordecai Bartley succeeded his son, Thomas W. Bartley, in the gubernatorial chair, the father being a Whig and the son a Democrat. After Mordecai Bartley's nomination by the Whig convention, Thomas W. Bartley came within one or two votes of being nominated by the Democratic convention as his opponent. The nomination was secured by David Tod, who was at that time a Democrat.

POT-METAL CURRENCY.

One of the issues in the gubernatorial campaign of 1844 was "hard" and "soft" money, the Democrats representing the former and the Whigs the latter. In a speech, David Tod, the Democratic candidate said that sooner than adopt "soft", or paper money, it would be better to go back to the Spartan idea of finance and coin money from pot-metal.

His opponents seized upon this expression, dubbed him "Pot-metal" Tod, and insisted that he was really in favor of coining pot-metal into currency. Medallions of Mr. Tod, about the size of a silver dollar, were struck off by his opponents by the thousand, being composed of pot-metal, and circulated throughout the State.

The pot-metal cry doubtless had much to do in bringing about his defeat by a slender margin, showing that small things are often effective in political campaigns, if the people happen to be in the humor to be influenced by them, which not infrequently happens to be the case.

LEGISLATORS WHO WERE GOVERNORS.

The following Governors served in one or both branches of the Legislature: Tiffin, Kirker, Huntington, Looker, Worthington, Brown, Trimble, Morrow, McArthur, Lucas, Vance, Thomas W. Bartley, Mordecai Bartley, Corwin, Ford, Wood, Medill, Dennison, Tod, Brough, Anderson, Cox, and Young.

The following served in the United States Senate: Tiffin, Meigs, Worthington, Brown, Corwin, Chase, and Allen.

The following served in the House of Representatives in Congress: Huntington, Morrow, McArthur, Vance, Shannon, Corwin, Mordecai Bartley, Medill, Cox, Hayes, Allen, Young, Foster, Campbell, and McKinley.

But five Governors did not serve either in the Ohio Legislature or in the Congress of the United States; namely, Bebb, Noyes, Bishop, Hoadly, and Foraker. Twenty-four served in the Ohio Legislature, seven in the United States Senate, and fifteen in the Lower House of Congress.

GOVERNORS IN THE NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION.

President—Rutherford B. Hayes.

Secretaries of the Treasury—Thomas Corwin, Salmon P. Chase, and Charles Foster.

Postmasters-General—Return Jonathan Meigs and William Dennison Jr.

RESIGNED.

The following Governors resigned for the reasons assigned, and were succeeded by the persons named:

Edward Tiffin, March 3, 1807, to become United States Senator; succeeded by Thomas Kirker.

Return Jonathan Meigs, March 25, 1814, to become Postmaster-General; succeeded by Othneil Looker.

Ethan Allen Brown, January 4, 1822, to become United States Senator; succeeded by Allen Trimble.

Reuben Wood, July 15, 1853, to become Consul to Valparaiso; succeeded by William Medill.

Rutherford B. Hayes, March 2, 1877, to become President of the United States; succeeded by Thomas L. Young.

SENT TO JAIL.

To Governor Thomas Worthington belongs the unique distinction of being the only Ohio Governor ever arrested and started to jail for debt. In 1815 or 1816, Governor Worthington contracted with Judge Jarvis Pike to grub and chop the timber off the present State House Square. The Governor was a non-resident of Franklin County, residing at Chillicothe. Some misunderstanding arose as to the payment of Judge Pike for his labors, whereupon he sued out a writ from the court of 'Squire King, and had the Governor arrested and marched off to jail. He was not locked up, however, the matter having been amicably adjusted.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

BY WHOM ESTABLISHED.

The Ohio State Library was established by Governor Thomas Worthington, in the year 1817. For several years previous to that time the need of such a library had been discussed. There was no provision for the preservation of regular sets of the laws and journals, nor any authorized place of deposit for maps, laws, documents, or journals which might be sent from other States. The General Assembly which met December 2, 1816 appropriated $3,500 as a contingent fund for the Governor in 1817. In the summer of that year, Governor Worthington made a visit to cities in the eastern States, for the purpose of investigating the plans of management in practice for penitentiaries and other State institutions. While in Philadelphia, he determined to purchase a collection of books for the establishment of a State Library in Ohio. On his return to Columbus, he authorized the fitting up of a room over the Auditor's office, in the south end of the State office building, then on High street, just south of the avenue to the west entrance to the State House. He deposited therein the books he had selected, and had them arranged on shelves.

When the Sixteenth General Assembly met in December, 1817, the Governor reported in detail the steps he had taken for the founding of a State Library.

In his message, which was read to the General Assembly December 2, 1817, Governor Worthington said: "The fund made subject to my control by the last General Assembly, besides paying the ordinary demands upon it and for articles mentioned in the resolution of the Legislature of January 28, 1817, has enabled me to purchase a small, but valuable collection of books, which are intended as a commencement as a library for the State. In the performance of this act, I was guided by what I conceived the best interest of the State, by placing within the reach of the representatives of the people such information as will aid them in the discharge of the important duties they are delegated to perform."

On the 9th of December, the Governor sent a communication to the Legislature, in which he reported the titles of the books he had purchased, and the rules he had authorized for the management of the library.

On motion of Gustavus Swan, a member of the House for Franklin County, a resolution was adopted on the 17th of January, 1818, accepting the library which Governor Worthington had purchased, and appointing a joint committee, consisting of three members of the House and two members of the Senate, to report rules and regulations for the same.

FIRST LIBRARIAN.

Agreeably to the rules established, Governor Worthington entrusted the care of the library to John L. Harper, during the session of the General Assembly for 1817-18. He was, consequently, Ohio's first State Librarian. He was paid for his services $2 a day, during the session of the Legislature.

FIRST DONATION.

The first gift to the library on record was by Jeremy Bentham and Robert Owen, through John Quincy Adams, Minister to England.

Subsequently many other persons contributed volumes, pamphlets, letters, etc., while others were regularly acquired by purchase and exchange, until at the close of the year 1890 there were 60,633 volumes registered.

In 1856, the library was removed from its original location on High street to rooms opposite the State Treasury, and in 1858 to its present quarters opposite the Senate Chamber.

In the meantime, the legal works originally in the State Library were placed in the Law Library, and they became separate institutions.

Wm. T. Coggeshall, who was Librarian from 1856 to 1862, wrote a detailed history of the library up to, and including, the year 1858, which appears in the report of that year. In 1890, John C. Tuthill, the Librarian, brought the history down to that date. To these able writers persons are referred who desire the details in all their particularity.

House of Representatives Library, Washington .....	125,000
Public Library, Chicago.....	119,570
Sutro Library, San Francisco, Cal.....	110,000

On the 1st day of March, 1891, there was stored on the dark, towering shelves of the Boston Public Library 528,804 volumes, which is a larger number, by a good many thousands, than is to be found in any other library in the United States, with the exception of the Congressional at Washington, which has 565,134 volumes, many of which, however, are dry legal works, which have very little value to the ordinary mortal. The Boston Public Library stands eighth among the great libraries of the world. The National, of Paris, founded in 1737, has 2,290,000 volumes, and is first, followed by the British Museum, established in 1753, and now containing 1,500,000 volumes; Imperial Public Library, of St. Petersburg, Russia, the date of whose establishment is unknown, 1,000,000 volumes; the Royal Library, of Munich, founded in 1570, 800,000; Royal, of Berlin, founded in 1661, 750,000 volumes. It is safe to say that when the Boston Library reaches the present age of some of these old storehouses of knowledge, it will have shown a growth far outstripping any of those mentioned.

TOTAL COST.

The total expenditures for the State Library from 1817 to 1890, inclusive, for all purposes, including purchase of books, Librarian and Assistant Librarian's salaries, repairs, contingent expenses, etc. were $201,278.91.

The salary of the Librarian who had entire charge began with $200 in 1817, and was increased from time to time until, in 1890, it was $1,500 for the Librarian, $1,200 for the Assistant Librarian, and $480 for a janitor.
